THINKING MATTERS MOST

"As we believe that answers are not as important as the question for the latter does have the greatest potential for meaningful change, we will rather the right question than the right answer.."

Welcome to the Aina Blankson Thinkers and Leaders Internship ("AB-TLI") designed for talented undergraduate and graduate students to gain practical insights into the operational environment of Aina Blankson and make the case that thinking has the capacity to change any situation as authentic leaders thrive on ideas fueled by depth of thoughts. With our "Imaginative thinking" credo enveloping every step, every move and each breath we take, we expose promising young leaders to the all-important and inescapable place of "thinking" as it remains the most important thing in life. As we believe that answers are not as important as the question for the latter does have the greatest potential for meaningful change, we will rather the right question than the right answer.

As a potential member of the Aina Blankson Thinkers and Leaders Program ("AB-TLP"), be it under the Executive Program, Fellowship Program or Internship Program, you will be exposed to the operations of Aina Blankson, our distinctive style of doing business and the overall essence of being an authentic leader. As Imaginative thinking is at the core of all we do at Aina Blankson, it is imperative to present cutting-edge ideas that integrate global standards as we share a conviction that if we think imaginatively, work creatively and lead with integrity, we will make the world a better place. You will work with a dedicated team to tackle several projects and you will be required to hone your listening, communication, creative and presentation skills; put forward suggestions and play an active role in your assigned teams. We encourage fresh creative ideas which can make a difference to our clients, our firm and society at large. In one word, you will be required to "Think, Rethink and Keep Thinking"!

Age is certainly not maturity. As Elaine Aron, the American psychologist and author said in her international best seller, Highly Sensitive Person "What we need more right now are people who think carefully, feel deeply, notice the subtle details and end up having the big picture". The overarching objective of the Aina Blankson Thinkers and Leaders Program is to identify and build minds that could pursue that big picture of becoming a truly global citizen/firm with distinctive world class standards and, most of all, making a difference!

Enjoy your Thinking Experience!

Best Wishes.

Kehinde Aina, SAN
